By Theodor W. Adorno

Polity. Paperback. Condition: New. 267 pages. Dimensions: 8.9in. x 6.1in. x 0.8in. This volume comprises one of the key lecture courses leading up to the publication in 1966 of Adorno's major work, Negative Dialectics. These lectures focus on developing the concepts critical to the introductory section of that book. They show Adorno as an embattled philosopher defining his own methodology among the prevailing trends of the time. As a critical theorist, he repudiated the worn-out Marxist stereotypes still dominant in the Soviet bloc; he specifically addresses his remarks to students who had escaped from the East in the period leading up to the building of the Berlin Wall in 1961. Influenced as he was by the empirical schools of thought he had encountered in the United States, he nevertheless continued to resist what he saw as their surrender to scientific and mathematical abstraction. However, their influence was potent enough to prevent him from reverting to the traditional idealisms still prevalent in Germany, or to their latest manifestations in the shape of the new ontology of Heidegger and his disciples. Instead, he attempts to define, perhaps more simply and fully than in the final published version, a negative, i. e. critical, approach...

Reviews

A really great publication with lucid and perfect reasons. I have read through and i am confident that i am going to gonna read yet again yet again down the road. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
