

Notes on Buddhist Law Volume III Marriage

By British Burma Judicial Commissioner

Windham Press. Paperback. Condition: New. 82 pages. Dimensions: 9.6in. x 6.7in. x 0.2in. Notes on Buddhist Law Volume III Marriage By Judicial Commissioner, British Burma Preface Take a fourth share amongst them, others that the eldest son takes this fourth, while Mount Tet Too is clear that the mother keeps all until her death. One Native Judge of long experience had never had such a case before him: another had, but only once. A third venerable Judge, on being consulted as to the meaning of texts, compared himself to a man waking in a dream of times gone-by. Several who insist that by strict law a man may divorce his wife, or a wife her husband without any cause whatever, have stated that they never themselves had occasion to pass any such decree. All the many Native Judges whom I have consulted, whether they held that opinion or not, are united in saying that where one party absolutely objects to a divorce and refuses to ratify or acquiesce in an abandonment, the only possible way of effecting a divorce is by suit and decree in a Civil court. But some have stated the rule at first as if the fiat of the...

Reviews

An incredibly great ebook with lucid and perfect explanations. It is actually really fascinating through studying period of time. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
