Time Make Changes is a short read about an interesting day in the life of Linda MacGregor. Linda and her husband James return to Scotland to retire after living over thirty-five years in London. She attends a school reunion where she catches up with old school classmates that she hasn't seen for over forty-five years. In her mind she compares how they were then to how they are now with some hilariously funny, happy, and sad results. The story is down-to-earth with the universal types of people that everyone comes across in real life. Linda's experiences will ring true with anyone who has ever been to a class reunion. Personal secrets are revealed: some people have improved with age, some have not, and Linda's old school pals have some humorously sexy and naughty gossip that will take you by surprise. So share a stroll down memory lane with Linda MacGregor and those she who she meets along the way .
