Its readers will find that it is a book of no ordinary merit. The characteristics by which it is specially marked are broad learning, shown in results rather than by processes; a remarkable knowledge of the Scriptures, by which light is made to concentrate upon the text under consideration from a multitude of related passages; and an intense fervor, enlightened by a rare spiritual insight. It is a book to be read, not hastily, but section by section, with attention and meditation, that its deep thoughts of things divine and spiritual may be grasped and made our own. Believing that its readers will be glad to know something of the author of the book, we give a brief sketch of his life, now (A. D. 1883)in its seventy-third year. William Graham is a native of Ireland, the son of a pious Presbyterian farmer of moderate means, the youngest of seven children. His...
