Outlines of the Philosophy of Religion (Classic Reprint)

By Hermann Lotze

Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. 180 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.4in. l. Our every-day apprehension of the World is pervaded throughout with suppositions concerning an inner coherency of its phenomena, which is in no wise immediately perceived by us, and yet is regarded as needing no explanation and as necessary. Thus, for example, even the most common apprehension of the world is impossible without articulating the content of our perceptions in such a manner that we assume Things as the supports and centres of its phenomena and events, and all kinds of reciprocal actions as being interchanged between them. Neither those things, however, nor these actions, are immediate objects of perception. In the same manner are both a theoretic apprehension and a practical treatment of the world inconceivable without the supposition of a causal connection of that which has actual existence. All these and other suppositions we have become accustomed to in life with the feeling of their necessity, but without availing ourselves of a clear knowledge of theirTable of Contents Introduction i; FIRST PRINCIPAL DIVISION ONTOLOGY; Preliminary Remarks 15; Chapter I, Of the Significance (Conception) of; Being 18; Chapter II Of the Content of the Existent 25;...
