And such suggestions seem at this time peculiarly required: for the present ecclesiastical controversies cannot much longer continue to be of interest for the more thoughtful, but will probably for such be superseded by others relating to questions of far deeper import, and of far more difficult solution. Indeed after a few years it will probably seem simply humiliating that questions which had been so frequently and so fully discussed in past ages, with everywhere uniformly the same kinds of results, should have been supposed by us, without new data, to admit of any decisions essentially different from those which our fathers had so deliberately and repeatedly and emphatically pronounced. It cannot surely be long before it will be seen that there really never can be but one fundamental ecclesiastical question, which is this...
