Excerpt from Genealogy of the Whitebread Family in America In order to escape such military service, he decided to come to America. He took voyage in an old fashioned sailing vessel, and after a tedious voyage of thirteen weeks, landed at Philadelphia on the sixth day of August, A. D., 1784, a stranger in a strange land. Having no education, save in his mother tongue, he found it difficult in his search for Work, to make his desires known; but by persevering effort, finally was rewarded, and hired to a small truck farmer, in the suburbs of Philadelphia, with whom he remained for several years; by which time, applying the early lessons learned in his old home across the sea, he had accumulated a small sum of money, which he decided to invest in a small farm of his own. He purchased of a Philadelphia lawyer, a small farm, and engaged in truck farming on his own account. On the 8th day of April, 1790, he was married to Mary Danenheimer, and started not only as the head of the family, but of his business also. During this marriage, eight children, five sons and three daughters, were born to them. Four sons, Viz John, Daniel, Bernard and Henry, and one daughter, Mary, were still living, when in October, 1805, his wife died. He remained a widower until January, 1807. It was during this time, while he was a widower, that a very interesting stance occurred. I will relate it as I remember often hearing my father relate it. When he purchased the little farm from the lawyer referred to above, with whom he had become quite well acquainted, and who...
