Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Andean Melodies Prologue Sipping at words, like honey-bees, And seeking to distil them, Like those who plunder flow ring trees, And trail flower-fragrance with them, A poet flits from flower to flower, Following his own blind instinct; Though, should his wings but have the power, The universe his precinct. Across life s barren wastes he goes, Piercing the lighted darkness: Wings past all pain, to death s repose, And pipes his note of gladness. Follow his flight through fairy fields; Up hope s high mountain passes: Sample the honey which he yields; Which loss, from grief, expresses; Then, having tasted, should you choose To praise his choice of nectar, It may be you will not refuse To love your winged worker.
