

Deserts of Forgetting and Memory Mirages (Paperback)

By Costas Komborozos

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Two travelers move through a wasteland. The ultimate traveler lays buried here. Our names, like his, will forever be remembered. What happens if we don't find it? We'll never make it out of here. This desert appears to be endless. I can no longer tell where we began our journey, and I fear that I will forget what our destination is. The travelers share a look of concern. Then one of them gestures toward the distance. We have to keep moving. Who knows, maybe finding the grave of Herodotus will restore all of our memories. The two travelers persist along their course. They observe how the wasteland appears to be same. Within moments, one of them feels a sudden wave of exhaustion. The other traveler observes him and asks, Are you alright? He watches as the other traveler lays on the sand now. What is it? Speak to me! The traveler looks around for any sign that they may be getting closer to their destination, but there is none. When he looks at his fellow traveler again, he sees...
