The hybrid DPAL system combines efficient diode pumping with the good beam quality and thermal characteristics of gas lasers. Thermal effects on alkali concentration have been observed to degrade performance, while low speed flowing systems are in development. However, spatial gradients in temperature and concentrations have not previously been observed. In the present work, a 0.8 W/ cm² pump laser at the D1 frequency heats the medium in a T=50-100C Cs heat pipe with 5 Torr nitrogen used for quenching. A 31 μW/cm² diode laser probes the spectral absorbance of the Cs cell on the D2 transition with radial spatial resolution. 70 pp. Englisch.
