It is just one of my personal favorite books. I was able to comprehend every little thing out of this published publication. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

The above operation takes place so rapidly that the upper carbon is fed forward in almost perfect unison with the consumption, ensuring a steady light. From tests made of this lamp an actual, not nominal, candle power of 2250 candles, or 1450 candles per horse-power at the lamp, was obtained--the electricity being furnished by an A gramme dynamo. I would like here to explain and clear up an ambiguity which has arisen and which is very confusing to those not acquainted with electrical phraseology. When the expression, so many candles per electrical horse-power, or so many candles per horse-power expended in the lamp, is used, it is to be understood that the electrical energy absorbed by the lamp, and developed in the form of heat and light, is accord ing to the formula, . (which we stated at the beginning of this paper, was an actual horse power of 33,000 foot pounds per minute). This takes no account whatever of the energy lost in transmission through the leading wires, or...
