You must be careful to do everything I command you; do not add anything to it or take anything away from it. (Deuteronomy 12:32 (HCSB)) The ordinances that God gave Moses in the Torah, which included the ten commandments and about 613 total commandments, were given to Israel, mostly to maintain freedom and civility to one another and to teach them the acceptable worship of God. In the Scripture above, it was strictly warned not to add or take away from those laws. By the time of Christ, however, the religious rulers had added hundreds if not thousands of ordinances and interpretations which served to bring the Israelites under control of the priests and Sanhedrin's rule. These additions were the cause of conflict between Christ and the Pharisees. He refused to live under that yoke and taught the people a new way of life which set them free from their current circumstance. The Pharisees branded Christ a blasphemer as much for speaking out against their religious hierarchy as for declaring himself the Son of God. Today, we have freedom of...
