In devotion to our characteristic American ideals, liberty of the individual and equality of opportunity for all, in industry and in education, at work and at play, our people are united. Northern capital builds Southern mills and Southern men sell the products to Northern consumers. Northern money aids in founding Southern schools, and Southern boys and girls go to Northern colleges. We visit back and forth in happy friendly relations. Our sons and daughters intermarry, the more freely, apparently, because their grandfathers tried to kill each other. National feeling is certainly as strong in the South as it is in the North, only with the difference that in the South it is usually a little more openly and eloquently expressed. In the war for the liberation of Cuba, Southern boys marched side by side with Northern and Western, proudly wearing the blue and following the flag their fathers fought against, and North Carolina gave the first martyr on the sea and Tennessee on the land. Working together in factory and farm, united in hearts and in homes, we still persist, however, in remaining divided in our political affiliations. Today, however, many of us sincerely believe that the time has come when thoughtful men, especially the educated young men who are to lead these people in the future, should...
