By -

Palgrave MacMillan. Paperback. Condition: New. 257 pages. The adoption of the Joint Africa-EU Strategy (JAES) in December of 2007 represented a watershed moment in Africa-EU relations, one that sought to reinvent this historical relationship and transform it to meet the challenges of a rapidly changing regional and international context marked by complex interdependencies, deepening integration, expanding globalization, and growing competition against the backdrop of a tectonic power shift which seems to signal the slow dislocation of the West as the epicenter of world politics. Five years into its implementation, this book offers a thorough and first comprehensive investigation of the JAES, which has set the stage for the most advanced form of interregionalism in international relations. This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg,OR, La Vergne,TN. Paperback.
