Thou Goddess, Muse! light in my brain thy lamp With a celestial flame; guide thou my thoughts In numbers smooth, and ev ry line do thou Improve with some fresh image from thy spheres, From whence all Poesy appears to those Who court thy graceful charm; and do my soul From fears disarm of those who are so prone To sneer, when new-born Poets do appear To add a ray with their dim flame, to light The onward step of time. O, Thou! in whom I place my trust, knowing my motive to Be just, be with me in the silent hour, And aid me with Thy heavenly power to guide My purpose to that end, which may no eye Of man offend; but Thee! especially would I please; so, free me from that dread disease, Which constant preys upon my mind - the fear Of being folly-blind. I know my effort May be weak; though I shall ever try to Seek Thy grace, Thy power and holy sanction. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
