Is this the station, Gran pa Jim? inquired a young girl, as the train began to slow up. I think so, Mary Louise, replied the handsome old gentleman addressed. It does look very promising, does it? she continued, glancing eagerly out of the window. The station? No, my dear; but the station isn't Cragg's Crossing, you know; it is merely the nearest railway point to our new home. The conductor opened their drawing-room door. The next stop is Chargrove, Colonel, he said. Thank you. The porter came for their hand baggage and a moment later the long train stopped and the vestibule steps were let down. If you will refer to the time-table of the D. R. G. Railway you will find that the station of Chargrove is marked with a character dagger ( † ), meaning that trains stop there only to let off passengers or, when properly signaled, to let them on. Mary Louise, during the journey, had noted this fact with misgivings that were by no means relieved when she stepped from the sumptuous train and found before her merely a shed-like structure, open on all sides, that served as station-house.
