

Strategic Missiles: Issues Regarding
Advanced Cruise Missile Program
Restructuring: NSIAD-94-145

U.S. Government
Accountability Office (GAO)

DOWNLOAD PDF

Strategic Missiles: Issues Regarding Advanced Cruise Missile Program Restructuring: Nsiad-94-145

By -

BiblioGov. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 40 pages. Dimensions: 9.7in. x 7.4in. x 0.1in. Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed the Advanced Cruise Missile (ACM) program, focusing on: (1) ACM program restructuring, funding, and missile performance; and (2) the application of work measurement standards to ACM production contracts and the criteria used in determining contractor progress payments. GAO found that: (1) because of funding problems, the Air Force dramatically restructured the ACM program as of January 1992; (2) between fiscal years (FY) 1982 and 1993, about 2.5 billion was obligated to the ACM program, and the Air Force received 461 missiles; (3) funds from FY 1990, 1991, and 1992 were not used to cover cost overruns from FY 1987 and 1988 ACM contracts; (4) residual material and associated costs accounted for nearly 227 million of the 314 million the Air Force obligated to FY 1990 to 1993 efforts; (5) about 41 percent of the value of the residual material could be used for spare parts; (6) the Air Force could incur costs of 56.7 million to terminate ACM contracts and close out the program; (7) nearly half of the Air Forces appropriated...

READ ONLINE

[2.63 MB]

Reviews

I actually started reading this publication. It is full of knowledge and wisdom You wont sense monotony at at any time of your respective time (that's what catalogs are for relating to should you check with me).

-- Vilma Bayer III

It in just one of the most popular ebook. It really is full of wisdom and knowledge You are going to like just how the blogger create this pdf.

-- Roosevelt O'Keefe