Excerpt from Remarks on the Tour Around Hawaii, by the Missionaries, Messrs.: Ellis, Thurston, Bishop, and Goodrich, in 1823 The visit of Cook to the Sandwich Islands, and the interesting accounts given by that celebrated navigator, of the natives, greatly confirmed me in the opinion that man was highly endowed by his Maker, and designed to be happy. Fully imbued with these impressions, I heard with much regret of the intended mission to convert these Islanders to what is called Christianity, as I was well aware that the same spirit of bigotry and intolerance which had proved so fatal in all other missions of the same character, would have a like result in this. In the first publication of the Tour around Hawaii, by the missionaries, I perceived - with great pleasure, that, although these natives had suffered much from their intercourse with civilized man, they still retained a portion of those primitive Virtues, which had engaged the respect and sympathy of the wise and good. The editor has, however, in an appendix, enumerated all the vices which can be named, as common to these Islanders 5 unhappily for the human race, especially those who are civilized, these odious vices can be found to exist in every country, although practised in secret.
