Excerpt from Science, Vol. 7: An Illustrated Journal; January-June 1886 In no department of its coast operations is the practical usefulness of the survey more apparent than in its systematic researches and publications relating to the safety of navigation. Foremost among these are the thorough series of observations of the tides. In addition to this, advantage is taken in the most practical way of all discoveries and developments affecting the safety of navigation by the printing and wide circulation of the series of notices to mariners. During the year 1883 - 84, for example, twelve such notices were published as warnings to navigators against newly discovered or newly developed dangers. Also the studies of officers of the survey in the department of physical hydrography have led to results of the highest practical importance in our commerce and navigation.
