True, I talk of dreams; Which are the children of an idle brain, Begot of nothing but vain fantasy, Which is as thin of substance as the air; And more inconstant than the wind, who woos Even now the frozen bosom of the north, And, being angerd, puffs away from thence, Turning his face to the dew-dropping south. Il est naturel que nos ides les plus vives et les plus familires se rtracent pendant le sommeil. I had a most curious dream about Min that very night. Probably this was owing to the reactionary mental relief I experienced after all my doubts and jealousies you know, joie fait peur sometimes. It might also have resulted from the stronger impression which my last interview with her had made upon my mind, coupled with all the sweet hopes and darling imaginings that had sprung suddenly into existence, when her rose-red lips told me in liquid accents that she loved me. How deliciously the words had sounded! I seemed to hear them now once more; and, that kiss of ecstasy! almost felt it again in all its passionate intensity! This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
