Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Coercion Completed, or Treason Triumphant: Remarks On the fifth of December, 1860, President Buchanan, acknowledging a correspondence which I sent to him between Madison and Hamilton - the subject, the right of a State to withdraw from the Union - wrote to me: I have read the Hamilton and Madison Correspondence to several friends both in the Senate and the House, with, I think, a good effect upon some of them. In the letter thus acknowledged, I proposed to communicate to him the opinions of Washington and Hamilton - Jefferson and Madison - asserting the right of the Coercion of refractory States. This overture was declined. On the 7th of December I informed the President of a communication from Charleston, which had come to my knowledge, seeking minute information as to the military defences in that harbor; and on the following day, not apprized of the President s false views, and therefore ignorant of his motives for declining my overture, I sent to him the opinions previously referred to. Subsequently, at the request of General Scott, I transmitted to him a copy of my last letter to the President. This noble patriot - anxious, as he observed, for some practical scheme of compromise which would meet the crisis, yet fully prepared, in the grievous emergency, to put forth the military arm of the nation - wrote to me on the 22d of December: In a long interview, a week ago, with the President, I endeavored to bring him out on General Washington s and Mr. Jefferson s doctrines on the Coercion of States, but could not make him touch the subject or allude to your...
