Michigan brigade of cavalry at the battle of Gettysburg, July 3, 1863, Under Command Of brig. -gen. Geo. A. Custer. History is said to be true, but I can say without fear, that as written, it has scarcely a semblance of truth so far as it relates to the part that the Michigan Brigade of Cavalry and the four regiments composing this brigade, took in the battle of Gettysburg; also of the important part played by the Fifth and Sixth Michigan Cavalry before the battle. I will begin back a few days or even weeks before the battle and give the movements of the Fifth. We were camped on what was called the Lawyers Road, doing picket duty with the Sixth, both regiments being under the command of Col. George Gray, of the Sixth. The Fifth Michigan was commanded by Lieut. Col. Ebenezer Gould. About the 1st of June, a, slim young man with almost flaxen hair, looking more like a big boy, came to us and, as the line officers expressed it, with the cheek of a government mule, actually asked us to sign a petition to Gov. Austin Blair to appoint him as Colonel of the Fifth. He said his name was George A. Custer, and that he was a West Pointer. No petition was sent. A short time after this, the Lieutenant-Colonel of the Sixth, R. A. Alger, was made Colonel of our regiment. About the 20th of June we were...
