Not illustrated. 1882 Excerpt: .disease, pauperism, and crime, it is not a legitimate subject for legislative permission on any conditions whatever, but rather an evil demanding speedy and permanent prohibition. Let us inquire, therefore: Who are benefited by the liquor traffic? The best method of reaching a fair and just solution of this question is by a system of exclusive reasonings--a system not unlike that which the careful physician employs in reaching a correct diagnosis of an obscure disease. ist. Does the liquor traffic benefit the tax-payers? This is a very important as well as highly respectable class of our fellow-citizens, and so numerous that their interests can not with justice be ignored or antagonized by legislation. This class is composed, for the most part, of industrious and honest men--men who earn their bread by the sweat of their brows --men who rise early and toil late. It is. estimated...
