Not illustrated. 1852 Excerpt: .House is a small ornamental lake of about two acres, the overflow from which supplies the upper part of the meadows; and at Pusey Lodge Farm, and Cherbury Camp, two other small streams are brought under tribute for the fields in their vicinity. The whole body of water is, however, so small that I should think there is probably no other instance in which an equal quantity is turned to so profitable an account. Mr. Pusey says, that in summer they are very short of water, and can only let the fluid penetrate six inches into the soil, so as to damp it; at that time the earth is so dry that when the water goes in, and sinks through the worm-holes, the ground sings. In winter the operation is going on continuously, in one part or other. The geological formation at Pusey is the coral rag of the oolitic system, and the meadows in the vicinity of Cherbury Camp were, only a few years since, sheep-common, covered with emmet-hills, brambles, rushes, c, and worth about 5s. per acre per annum. The whole of the work has been done within the last four years, but at different times. That first commenced included the greatest amount of earthwork, and the several contracts contained diminish82 Engineer s Report on Mr. Pusey s Distribution ing quantities of labour, which will account for the differences in the following prices, with which I was favoured by Mr. Pusey: --20 acres at...
