Introductory Horticulture

By E.P. Christopher

Biotech/Astral International (P) Ltd., 2015. Hardcover. Condition: New. Equally useful for students and practitioners of horticulture, this book describes the various horticultural practices along with their scientific background. The introductory part of the book deals with; classification, structure and growth of plants; climatic requirements of horticultural crops; soils selection and management; techniques of plant propagation; and the use of plant growing structures for modifying environmental conditions. Discussed further in detail are the principles involved and practices used for the growing of more common vegetable, flower and fruit crops. Cultural practices for specific crops have been described, wherever possible. Some of the allied topics like principles of land-scaping growth abnormalities of plants and control of insects and diseases; and organisation of horticultural shows, have been covered in the concluding section of the book. Books for further reading have been listed under select references and an exhaustive subject index has been appended to the text.;Chapter 1: Field of Horticulture; Relation to Other Sciences and to the Individual, Fruits, Vegetables, Ornamentals, Statistics, Chapter 2: Classification Structure and Growth of Plants; Botanical: Genus and Species, Horticultural: Annual, Biennial and Perennial: Variety, Sport, and Strain, Cell and Tissues: Meristems, Roots, Stems, Flowers: Buds, Suckers, Water, Sprouts,...

Reviews

It is one of my personal favorite books. This is certainly for anyone who states there had not been a worth studying. I found out this ebook from my father and he advised this pdf to learn.

This ebook can be worthy of a go through, and a lot better than others. Better than never, though I am quite late in starting to read this one. It has been printed in an exceedingly easy way which is just soon after I finished reading this book where it basically modified me, affecting the way I really believe.
