Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. Excerpt from Public Health Management Guideline, 1991: Nps-83 This Guideline is being developed to consolidate all public health policy and guidance previously issued as Staff Directives and memoranda, as well as to provide additional guidance on new issues such as indoor radon. It s purpose is to assist the parks in complying with applicable Federal, State and local regulations and National Park Service policy. Not every situation that may occur is addressed, nor is there specific guidance for every unique condition. In those cases where there is no specific guidance or if clarification is needed, parks should contact the Regional Public Health Service Consultant for assistance in complying with both the intent and spirit of the requirements. The first chapter, Water Supply Systems, is a revision and expansion of Staff Directive 76-9. The revision was necessary to bring nps practices into conformance with recent amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act. This was done to establish a uniform, consistent, high quality standard that will meet the Service s obligations to protect the health of both visitors and staff members.
