

Fire with Fire:: The New Female Power and How It Will Change the 21st Century

By -

Condition: New. Ships From Canada. New in new dust jacket. Sewn binding. Cloth over boards. From Booklist Wolf sees the political and cultural ""genderquake"" set off by Anita Hill in 1991 as evidence for ""the seemingly ludicrous assertion that women already run the country--in electoral and consumer terms, not, of course, in economic terms--and have the power now to bring about the conditions that can begin to secure our equality. "" Despite the backlash documented by Susan Faludi--and by Wolf in her first book, The Beauty Myth (1991)--Fire with Fire argues for a more inclusive, less doctrinaire feminist movement; for a new ""power feminism"" to replace the ""victim feminism"" that has dominated the Reagan-Bush retrenchment years; and for a female psychology of power that, in place of the aspiration to ""niceness"" and fear of power at the center of traditional acculturation, permits women to explore and actualize all aspects of their personalities. Fundamentally, Wolf insists that ""diff.
