Not illustrated. 1852 Excerpt: .last winter the ocean temperature was found to be two degrees higher than usual. May not the mildness of that season have been due to the influence of that current of water, warmed in inter-tropical climes, flowing northward, and yielding up its store of heat to the shores of these islands? This ameliorating influence is strikingly shown in Norway. On the southern coasts of that country, which are sheltered from the Gulf stream by our own islands, the cereals will not grow; but further northwards, where the great current setting to the north of Scotland reaches the Norwegian shore, the climate is rendered sufficiently mild for the growth of grain crops. Again, the trade winds and the monsoons are entirely dependent upon the operations of heat; and careful observation has shown that the tornadoes of the West Indies and the cyclones of the Indian Seas are entirely due to the action of currents generated by the intensely heated surface of the earth. Notwithstanding the valuable researches of Sir William Reid, and others, proving the rotatory character of these storms, I am not satisfied that we have yet had a correct theory of the physical causes in action to produce them. These storms are revolving masses of air, with currents rushing from the circumference to the centre, and blowing up through that centre; these systems of air in violent motion being sometimes many hundreds of miles in diameter. The simplest explanation appears to be, that a comparatively...
