Excerpt: . . . that, until some scheme of local self-government can be adopted, this is a correct system, as the people will, in all probability, see that the money, of which they contribute a portion, is properly expended. At present the Government have no check upon this expenditure, further than that vouchers are forwarded, shewing the payment; but we have no means of telling whether the money is judiciously expended or not. It is necessary that I should allude in some way to the large amounts to be provided for by loans. There is a sum of. 290, 000, which is required to complete the lines to Bathurst and to Murrurundi, the last appropriation of 1, 000, 000 being found insufficient. There is also an amount of 1, 100, 000 for the further extension of the three existing lines, ---the Western line to Orange, the Southern line from Goulburn to Yass, and the Northern line from Murrurundi to Tamworth; the estimate is based upon the assumption that the lines will not cost more than 7, 000 per mile. The Engineer-in-Chief for railways is of opinion that with lighter earth-works the lines can be constructed at this rate. The Government having well considered whether it would be desirable to carry out a cheaper system of railways, and having availed themselves of all the information within their reach, have come to the conclusion that it is better to continue the lines to the points now proposed, in accordance with...
