Excerpt from Lectures on the Influence of Poetry and Wordsworth But it appears to me, that in this age of Mechanics and Political Economy, when every heart seems dry as summer dust, what we want is, not so much, not half so much - light for the intellect, as dew upon the heart; time and leisure to cultivate the spirit that is within us. The author of Philip Van Artevelde, in his last published volume, The Eve of the Conquest, has well described this our state Of high physical civilization and refinement, in which knowledge is mistaken for wisdom, and all that belongs to man s physical comfort and temporal happiness is sedulously cared for, while much that belongs to our finer and purer being is neglected - an age of grim earnestness - not the noble earnestness of stern Puritanism for high principles, but one which is terrible only when the purse is touched.
