Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed billings for inappropriate or undelivered therapy services, focusing on overcharges to Medicare nursing home patients. GAO found that: (1) the providers responsible for overcharges for therapy services are often rehabilitation companies or nursing homes; (2) the problem of overcharging is national in scope and growing in magnitude; (3) markups on therapy services result from providers exploiting weaknesses in Medicare's payment rules; (4) Medicare has been charged 600 per hour or more for therapists' salaries of 12 to 25 per hour; (5) the Health Care Financing Administration's (HCFA) rules regarding abusive therapy billing practices are not adequate to combat new business practices designed to generate increased Medicare revenue; (6) HCFA has known of the billing problem since 1990, but has yet to develop rules to improve Medicare reimbursement policies; and (7) implementation of such rules could be a lengthy process. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
