The main content of the research is the development of the system of social surveys origin, the spirit of the legislation as well as the status and role of juvenile delinquency prevention and juvenile justice. The second chapter is the individual factors, social factors, as well as the interaction between the two organizations from crime, psychology, sociology, social work and other disciplines with practical experience of experts and scholars on juvenile delinquency explore the depth theoretical and Practice seminar. Summed up the index system to carry out the social survey included risk factors, historical factors and protective factors, these research results to practitioners to carry out targeted social survey work has laid a good foundation. The third chapter is a summary of their practical experience and refining organization from front-line social workers has long been engaged in social investigation. Comrades to accept this part of the discussion and summarize both from the front-line social workers, grassroots judicial staff, achieved solid results in their bilateral cooperation, the social survey work has been carried out more than 700 minors incriminated accumulated a wealth of practical experience. I hope these experiences to provide a reference for the practical operation of the other social investigators. The annex to the main front-line social workers through...
