Excerpt from Ramie, Rhea, China Grass, or Nettle Fibre: A Reprint of Four Articles Which Appeared in the Textile Mercury Of 26th May, and 2nd, 9th, and 16th June, 1900 Dealing first with the general absence of knowledge that formerly prevailed, I would remark that many manufacturers took up the new fibre with avidity and made it the basis of manufacturing experiments and even speculative enterprises, but the results in nearly all cases were failure, loss of money, and disappointment. They had gone to work very energetically but without discretion, not realising that this fibre, like all others, has its peculiarities, which must be carefully studied and taken into consideration if success is to attend the efforts to manufacture it. An absolutely new fibre naturally needs a new system of treatment and special machinery and plant. Many manufacturers tried to work ramie on their existing machinery, which was designed for flax, cotton, silk, or worsted, etc., all these textiles having qualities differing in many important respects from ramie. Failure and disappointment were the result, because impossibilities were expected. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
