Five Year Report to the American Foundation for the Blind: 1979 Through 1984 The National Association for Parents of the Visually Impaired Inc. (napvi) is perhaps the most significant development in the field of blindness during the past five years. The initiative of the American Foundation for the Blind in 1979 to aid development of this organization has grown into the most widely recognized and respected organization for parents of visually impaired children in the United States. For the first time an organization of, by and for parents offers a program of support, information and service to parents of visually impaired children without regard to the age or degree of visual impairment of their child(ren). This broad base provides an Opportunity for parents to improve services to visually impaired children on a national level and contributes significantly to efforts of other groups in pursuit of resources for the benefit of the blind and visually impaired.
