Not illustrated. 1919 Excerpt: .and the accession to the throne of Duke Christian of Glucksburg, who had been adopted by the late King in default of male issue, and had been recognized by the Powers as Heir by the Treaty of London of May 8, 1852, added fuel to the flames. The situation soon developed so far that Bismarck, who had for some time been waiting for his opportunity, made up his mind to seize the chance of sacrificing the first victim to be devoured by the hungry jaws of Germany. He therefore anticipated the Diet of Frankfort, which on December 7th, in order to satisfy public opinion, had decided to launch a Federal execution against King Christian, came to an understanding with Austria which was at first reluctant, and in accord with the Hapsburg Emperor issued his first great defiance to Europe by requiring Denmark to abrogate the law of November 13th which had arranged the affairs of the Duchy of Schleswig. This was open and audacious tyranny, for the law in question was an internal law made for the territories and the purposes of the State of Denmark in the legitimate exercise of its own sovereignty. It was an act of oppression which could not be justified in any way by any interest of Prussia, for what Denmark had done and was doing within her own boundaries neither threatened nor offended Prussia in the remotest degree. Such tyranny should have been repressed by Europe. But Europe did nothing,...
