Original publisher: Washington, DC : National Center for Education Statistics : For sale by the Supt. of Docs. , U. S. G. P. O. , 2000. LC Number: LB1205 . W49 2000 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)46472318 Subject: Educational surveys -- United States. Excerpt: . . . Organization of Report The remainder of this report is organized into four sections. The findings are presented in two sections followed by a summary, and a methodology and technical notes section. The first findings section pertains to the overall gains children make during the kindergarten year in reading and mathematics. Findings in this section are based on childrens overall reading and mathematics scale scores. The second section of findings describes the extent to which children acquire specific reading and mathematics knowledge and skills during the kindergarten year. This section also includes information about childrens acquisition of various social skills over the school year. In this section, findings are reported in terms of the probabilities that children demonstrate specific reading and mathematics proficiencies, and the percent of children who demonstrate specific social skills. Each of the two sections on findings presents information in three basic areas. First, each section begins with a description of the gains children make from fall of kindergarten to spring of kindergarten. Second, differences in the gains children make are examined for different groups of children defined by a set of child, family, and kindergarten program characteristics. Third, differences in childrens status at the spring of kindergarten or as they are about to enter first grade are examined for these same groups of children. Comparisons made in the text were tested for statistical significance to ensure that the differences are larger than might be expected, due to sampling...
