TAXATION IN NEW YORK STATE (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Taxation in New York State Taxation in New York is unintelligible unless it is correlated with the revenues and expenditures of the government. A study of the revenue system in this State from the earliest days, when it was a Dutch colony, down to the present time discloses how much, and at times, all the revenue was derived from indirect sources. As the Dutch colony, New Netherland, the colonial revenue was nearly exclusively derived from two sources, from duties and from excise. In 1650, according to Secretary Cornelius Van Tienhoven, the revenue of the colony was derived from an eight per cent export duty on beaver skins; an excise on beer of (three guilders) per tun, which was first imposed in 1644; and an excise on wine of two cents (one stiver) per can, which was first imposed in 1647. In looking to their mother country for models of tax forms to introduce into their American possessions the Dutch settlers found numerous types of indirect taxes to choose from, but no tax that bore any resemblance to a general property tax. Every form of indirect taxes had been developed by the Dutch to carry on their war of independence. The importation and consumption of wine, beer and liquor was heavily taxed after about 1580. Also many articles of luxury as well as necessity were taxed either by an import or an excise duty. Direct taxes did not play an important role in Holland during this period.
