

China's Opening Door

By David Wall, Jiang Boke, Xiangshuo Yin

Royal Institute of International Affairs, United Kingdom, 1996. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 214 x 135 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. In this volume, the authors examine the evolution and current positions of China's trade, foreign exchange, and investment policies. David Wall, of the University of Sussex, examines the importance of Special Economic Zones. He explores their background and achievements and offers a series of recommendations for the future. Jiang Boke, of Fudan University in Shanghai, considers China's gradual shift toward foreign exchange convertibility. He covers the internal settlement rate and dual rate system, 1981-84; the intermediate period, 1985-93; and the exchange settlement system and Interbank Market since 1994. Yin Xiangshuo, also of Fudan University, explores China's move from autarky to an increasingly liberal market-based trade policy. He examines the trade policy reforms and performance since 1979 and the impact of these reforms on industrial development.
