MAMMALIAN HIBERNATION: PROCEEDINGS OF THE FIRST INTERNATIONAL SYMPOSIUM ON NATURAL MAMMALIAN HIBERNATION, MAY 13 15, 1959 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

Forgotten Books, United States, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Mammalian Hibernation: Proceedings of the First International Symposium on Natural Mammalian Hibernation, May 13 15, 1959 In violating the primary principle of homeothermism, the hibernators encounter problems which are unique in the mam malian and avian world. The mechanics of this almost purposeful abandonment Of the warm-blooded state are a challenge to the investigator, and the means by which the tissues and organs are able to function at such low temperatures are fruitful avenues for further research. These questions cry out for more basic ecology and more sophisticated physiological techniques. A good beginning only has been made in the fundamental biochemistry Of the problems involved. These same challenges attracted Claude Bernard and Raphael Dubois in the last century, but after their time there was only sporadic interest in hibernation until a reawakening which started in the European laboratories about twenty years ago. The interest spread to the New World. And the combined advance Of our knowledge in this field during the past decade has greatly accelerated. The purpose Of the conference was to bring this knowledge together. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
