Not illustrated. 1919 Excerpt: .served by a police officer outside of his own district. This was to enable captains of the districts to protect people within their districts whom they wanted to protect. Under the new rule creating a warrant record any officer getting a writ is obliged to serve it and report to the court. The police were required to abandon the rule under which they had been operating. You will see at once that the Police Department of Chicago is in the hands of the Municipal Court in the matter of the performance of its duties in relation to arrests, the taking of bail, etc. Of course, we have nothing to do with them in an administrative way. The Court, as a whole, makes its own rules of practice and procedure within such limits as the Legislature has not covered. It has wider powers in this respect than perhaps any other Court in the country. We do not have to go to the Legislature and plead that this would be a good rule or that would be a good rule and run the risk of getting it this year or two years hence or four years hence, and maybe never at all. This rule is passed by the Judges of the Court after consultation with the bar and the bar are free to come in to the Judges of the Court and ask to have a certain rule abrogated or another rule adopted. The Court and the bar...
