An insect fell from its hiding place, and simultaneously the bird swooped perpendicularly in time to catch the lesser form, and with a right-angled movement escaped the ground, to which it was unpleasantly close. It is the scourge of the aphids and other noxious insects, when there is no fruit upon the tree, giving special attention in the wild timber to the Acacia. I will quote a case beyond my own knowledge of its special service. Mr. W. H. F. Hill writes, in the Victorian Naturalist: -- Amongst the birds the Silver-eye, Zosterops casrulescens, is the chief enemy of the Oase Moth, destroying the young larva in...
