From the INTRODUCTORY. A FEW words of introduction are necessary to explain this attempt to simplify the garments of those who have not yet been fortunate enough to enjoy the freedom and comfort of a more hygienic form of clothing. In these days when so much has been done for children, it seems strange to find such hundreds and thousands of them still suffering from the burden of too many clothes. My attention was first drawn to this subject some years ago, when I visited the Poor Law Schools of England. Here the superabundance of clothing worn by the children of the State was very marked. Excellent material was supplied, strong and durable, but the quantity used on the children was pitiful. Early Victorian patterns were for the most part used, and underneath the pleats and gathers the children looked swollen and shapeless. Not only did one regret the waste of good material, but the labour of the washing-day must have been so unnecessarily great and the discomfort of the children was obvious. Doubtless to-day this is improved in our State schools, but in our elementary schools there is as yet but little improvement. Medical inspection has revealed much that is deplorable in this respect, and it would seem that the moment has come to introduce some simpler form of clothing that may be gradually adopted in the schools. Let us first consider what is worn by the elementary school child. The girls are the worst off. First they wear a thick vest and bunchy flannelette chemise. Flannelette drawers over or under some sort of stays - often boned - follow. Then two or three...
