Not illustrated. 1852 Excerpt: .saints to relieve them from the dangers with which they were surrounded. Others passed the rest of this dreadful night in prayer; for the earthquake ceased not, but continued at short intervals, with a certain undulating impulse resembling the waves of the ocean, and the same qualmish sensation or sickness at the stomach quake which convulsed was felt during the shocks, as is experienced in a vessel at sea. The violence of the earth was greatest in the forests, where it appeared as if there was a battle raging between the trees; for not only their branches were destroyed, but even their trunks are said to have been detached from their places, and dashing against each other with inconceivable violence and confusion, so much so that the Indians, in their figurative manner of speaking, declared that all the forests were drunk. The war also seemed to...
