

Introducing Anthroposophical Medicine: Twenty Lectures Held in Dornach, Switzerland March 21-April 9, 1920 (Paperback)

By Rudolf Steiner

Anthroposophic Press Inc, United States, 2010. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. 20 lectures in Dornach, Switzerland, March 21- April 9, 1920 (CW 312) Our task is to discover the real difference between those processes in the human organism that we call disease processes--which are basically quite normal, natural processes, even though specific causes must precipitate them--and the everyday processes that we call healthy. We must discover this radical distinction, but we shall not be able to do so if we cannot take up a way of looking at human beings that really leads to their essential nature. --Rudolf Steiner In these twenty lectures, given to medical doctors and students, Steiner presents a new approach to the art of healing, based on the insights of spiritual science. Taking account of modern medical knowledge and practice, and deeply versed in alchemical, Paracelsian, and naturopathic approaches, as well as homeopathy, aroma therapy, and other alternative therapies, Steiner demonstrates, on the basis of his own researches, how a truly integrated whole-person medicine is possible--one that understands the human as a being of body, soul, and spirit, a microcosm in the macrocosm, a mirror of the earth and of the heavens....
