Excerpt from Bulletin No. 1, Issued Quarterly by Vermont State Board of Health, Vol. 2: September, 1901 Ladies and Gentlemen: - In the few remarks which I am supposed to make at this opening session, I thought it might not be amiss to review very briefly the history of the public health legislation here in this state and make an attempt to measure practically the value of that legislation to the public health. Previous to 1886, the laws pertaining to public health or sanitation here in Vermont were very few. There was a registration law which provided for the registration of births, marriages or deaths, or divorces, through the agencies of school and district town clerks and county clerks. That law was in force up to the year 1896, forty years. There was also a law on the statute books for a good many years giving the selectmen in towns certain authorities as local boards of health. In regard to the abatement of nuisances there was also a law. There was also a law pertaining to the subject of small pox. Those were the chief laws which bore directly or indirectly upon the present time. In 1886 a law was passed creating the State Board Of Health. The law instructs that they shall take cogizance of the interests and health of the people of this state. They shall make sanitary investigations under certain circumstances. They shall advise with the selectmen and municipal officers in regard to the sanitation of public buildings. Also promulgate rules and regulations in contagious diseases. Their authority, however, was limited, but it enabled them to issue rules and regulations applicable to epidemic diseases. After the amendment of it..
