Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Latter-Day Saints Millennial Star, Vol. 68: April 19, 1906 The well known hymn beginning with the verse quoted above is from the pen of William Clayton, one of the pioneers, and for some time the private secretary of the Prophet Joseph Smith. He was a gifted writer, and it is a matter of regret that this and one other hymn beginning, When first the glorious light of truth, Burst forth in this last age, are the only two which have been left by him to the Church. The latter is a favorite funeral hymn, and both are written in much the same vein. The theme of reward in the hereafter for the suffering Saints on earth seems to have been prominent in the author s mind, and it is not difficult to tell from the tenor of the lines that he was one who endured much for the Gospel s sake. Of all the songs of Zion, perhaps none is more dear to the hearts of a great number of Latter-day Saints than Come, come, ye Saints. Especially dear was it...
