Excerpt: . . . 27 claims, putting computerized edits into their portion of the claims-processing system to help ensure proper payment, serving as providers primary contact with Medicare by enrolling providers, conducting provider outreach and education, responding to provider inquiries, and auditing provider cost reports. In addition, MACs are responsible for coordinating with other CMS contractors that perform limited Medicare functions that serve beneficiaries and providers. For example, the 1-800-MEDICARE help line answers calls for general and claims-specific beneficiary inquiries and forwards a relatively small number of complex beneficiary inquiries to the MACs to respond. The MACs also are required to provide required reports and other documents, known as deliverables, to CMS within generally specified time frames. In its February 2005 report to Congress, Medicare Contracting Reform: A CMSs Plans for Blueprint for a Better Medicare, HHS outlined CMSs plans for Contracting Reform implementing contracting reform and highlighted anticipated improvements, including improved customer service, streamlined service delivery by integrating claims-processing functions, and savings from reducing program costs (see fig. 1). 27 Medical review is performed by Medicare contractors, before or after payment, to ensure that payment is made only for services that meet all Medicare coverage, coding, and medical necessity requirements. Most medical review is conducted through computerized claims edits - instructions programmed into the claims-processing system that identify a set of claims meeting specified characteristics - with a limited number of claims reviewed by clinically-trained staff. Claims are reviewed to see if beneficiaries conditions meet Medicare coverage criteria. If medical reviews identify claims that should not have been . . . This item ships from La...
