Excerpt from Annual Report for the Year 1970: City of Rochester, New Hampshire It now appears that the City will again increase its assessments by a sizeable figure this coming year. My intentions were to correct many of the existing inadequacies. In line with this, the City Hall was painted outside and, in addition, several interior offices hallways and woodwork were painted. Three rooms were added in the Police Department for the use of police officers. Also in the Police Department area a new flooring was installed, the general offices, police courtroom, and the cell area were painted and repaired. A new burner was installed in the City Hall and the ceiling replaced in the boiler room that was damaged in an explosion several years ago.
