Excerpt: . . . quantity is applied as a correction in every case. In place of a platinum boat a superficially oxidized copper boat was used in these experiments. At the low temperature of fusion of silver dichromate there is little danger of decomposition of nitric acid or oxides of nitrogen by the oxidized copper. It is to be noted that if the nitric acid is decomposed during the experiment according to the following equation: $2\text{HNO}_3 \rightarrow \text{H}_2\text{O} + 2\text{NO}_2$, and is absorbed by the potassium hydroxide as KNO_3 , there is a slight loss of oxygen. The proportion of nitric acid present being very small, however, this error could have no appreciable effect on the results. It is somewhat surprising that Samples I and II contain the same proportion of volatile matter. This agrees with the result of the silver determinations, however, the samples proving to be otherwise...
