

The Imperial Administrative System in the Ninth Century: Volume 0, Part 0.

By BURY, J. B.,

Condition: New. Cambridge University Press, 2015. 186p. Paperback. Series: Cambridge Library Collection - Medieval History. The classical historian J. B. Bury (1861?1927) was the author of a history of Greece (also reissued in this series) which served as a standard textbook for over a century. He also wrote on the later history of the Roman empire, and, in this 1911 work, examines the text (of which he provides an edition) of the 'Kletorologion' of Philotheos, an otherwise unknown official at the court of Byzantine Emperor Leo VI in the late ninth century. The work is a guide to precedence and court hierarchy, which at this time were of great political and social importance. Bury uses it to throw light on an administrative process in a period from which few other administrative documents have survived, but also works backwards from it to the far better recorded period of the reign of Justinian, demonstrating the likely developments of the imperial system in the intervening three centuries. (Publisher's information). Condition: New Print on Demand. Printed on Demand.

READ ONLINE
[4.59 MB]

Reviews

This sort of pdf is everything and made me hunting forward and a lot more. It is packed with knowledge and wisdom I am just happy to inform you that this is the greatest ebook i have study within my own existence and might be he very best ebook for actually.

-- Celestino Blanda

Merely no phrases to describe. It really is rally intriguing through reading time. I am happy to tell you that this is basically the greatest book i have go through in my own lifestyle and might be he greatest book for ever.

-- Kattie Wunsch